

The DART impact into different targets can produce the same  $\beta$ , but different craters.

Measurements of both  $\beta$  and crater size/morphology together can be diagnostic of target properties.

